William Carlos Williams' young woman at a window: an in-depth analysis based on the principles of Imagist Manifesto. Dhanya G. Assistant Professor, Department of English, Vignana Pharmacy College, Guntur, Andhra Pradesh, India. Abstract: This paper centers on William Carlos Williams' poem "Young Woman at a Window," with an aim to provide a comprehensive analysis. The text discusses the poem's themes of isolation and longing, and how it reflects the social conditions of the time. It also touches upon the poem's structure and language. The text is a promotional piece for a book or e-book, mentioning various download options and the publisher, HarperCollins. It includes a quote from Charles Dickens: "treasure the one who lightens the burden of anyone else." The text also mentions "God is the widow's husband" and "The Woman in the Window" by Lisa Klein.

The Ladies Delivery Window in the New York City Post Office was pictured in the October 1871 issue of Harper's New Monthly Magazine. Ladies Delivery Windows — special counters reserved for women picking up their mail — operated in some U.S. post offices from at least the 1830s through the early 1900s. Suggested gifts for a widow when you want to help and don't know what to do: "treasure the one who lightens the burden of anyone else" — Charles Dickens. 1.
